ANOTHER HUNTING SEASON

With the coming of April, foxhunters hang up their tack for another year. Many hunts stopped their activities shortly after Christmas, particularly out in the middle west where snow closes up the country, but for the most part April is the traditional end of the season, nor should it extend later as vixens are heavy with cubs and crops are coming on. Looking back over the season, the first one unaffected by wartime conditions, all signs point to a successful continuation of sport behind hounds with interest keen.

An almost unbelievably discouraging note, however, comes from England, the cradle of the sport as it is known in this country. There a bill has been seriously put forward in Parliament to stop the organized following of hounds on the trail of a fox. The bill does not stop hunting foxes with hounds but stops other people, namely the Field, from doing so. In this way the originators of the bill attempt to strike a death knell to the whole idea of the foxhunt, although cleverly acknowledging that they do not want to stop someone pursuing the fox as vermin. This, coming from England, shows how far to the left that great sporting country has moved, for at the root of the bill is the class struggle of those who object to any form of a wealthy class . . . Period.

It would hardly seem possible such a bill could receive attention but after 7 long years of privation, people in England are ready for any steps, no matter how drastic and foxhunting is just enough of a figurehead of the so-called privileged classes to be the proverbial political football for the present socialistic government faced with possible bankruptcy within a year.

Probably everyone who hunts in this country has thought of the future of the sport, wondered whether it could survive the rush of the modern age, but few probably thought that the first killing blow might come from England, the very stronghold of all the pageantry of the chase. Actually when one analyzes the sport, there is nothing intrinsic to provoke the wrath of leftish minded socialists provided the class distinctions which have incited the liberals in England are not waved in the face of those who do not hunt. There are in reality in this country several factors which are more favorable than anywhere else to the continuation of hunting for years to come.

First of all, Americans are intensely and genuinely democratic. Everyone with sincere enthusiasm for hunting is welcome in an American hunting Field. There may be some Masters who do not follow this practice, but they are few and fortunately in the minority. There is no place for narrowmindedness among the leaders of hunting in America, not if we do not wish to be faced with a bill similar to the English one. Secondly, numerous hunts are encouraging youngsters through the medium of the Junior Hunt. Whitmarsh Valley in Philadelphia was one of the earliest organizations to develop hunting days for juniors. It has been taken up in Maryland, in Connecticut, in the Middlewest and it is one of the most promising signs for the future that foxhunting has today.

Another good thing is the joint meet which has been practiced in Maryland and in Connecticut. This enables hunts in neighboring localities to join forces and understand each other's problems while enjoying each other's sport. It tends to bind the various countries together, do away with ridiculous hunting jealousy, local prejudice and the general sectional feeling of the devil take the hindmost so long as our hunt continues to furnish sport. Finally, there are natural resources in the land and resourcefulness in the minds of the people, greater than anywhere that will furnish the means to maintain the sport.

This is a socialistic age. Hunting has not been a socialistic sport. Those who are not willing to admit the changing times in this country and who seek to hide their heads ostrich-like because it is simpler, are doing foxhunting more harm than they can imagine. Foxhunting has got to prove its existence, not only to those who hunt, but to those who do not. Teaching youngsters what it means to be out of doors all day on a horse, hunting lore, hunting etiquette, horsemanship, and a general feeling of good comradeship for all with a love of horse and hound, is the proper basis upon which to rest the case. Smugness, hypocrisy, and a laissez faire attitude will not keep the wolf from the door of foxhunting any more than it will with anything else. A good year has been had this year but it is not too early to prepare for the years to come.

Letters to the Editor

Remount Emergency

Editor, The Chronicle:

Reliable sources inform me that immediate telegraphic action is necessary to save breeding program of American Remount Service. Current action is being taken to eliminate Remount Service and breeding program. Suggest immediate telegraphic action from organizations, associations, and individuals to your representative in Congress, Washington, D. C., requesting their full support in retaining the breeding program and a sufficient number of depots to carry on with this service.

California senate is adopting resolutions on this matter on Tuesday, April 1.

Editor's Note: The Remount has done incalculable good in the development of the riding horse of this country. Horsemen should do all in their power to help perpetuate this program and its existing organization.

HOMEWOOD—A Gentleman's Farm!

Here is the ideal combination of a self-sustaining farm and a fine estate, located in the beautiful blue grass region of Virginia, near Middleburg, one hour's ride from Washington, D. C.

200 acres of very productive land—income substantially more than expenses. Fine herd of Holstein cows and bull of Dunloggin stock.

Southern colonial main house commands magnificent view of Blue Ridge and Bull Run mountains. 5 bedrooms, 5 baths, 2 servants' rooms, 5 fireplaces, large center entrance hall. Superb landscaping of entire estate. Two streams on property and several fine springs.

All buildings in excellent repair. Modern stone dairy barn with 30 cow stalls; also dry cow 20-stall barn. "Young stock" barn, planned by Jamesway, has 3 stories. Running water with individual bowls in all barns. Horse barn near main house of stucco has 7 box stalls and includes a 5-room apartment and 3-car garage. 2 tenant houses, 2 concrete Marietta silos, 1 tile silo, 2 electric automatic hay dryers.

While this farm is being operated as a successful dairy at the present time it would be very inexpensive to convert the barns for beef cattle or horse breeding. There is a great deal of new plank fencing on the property which would be ideal for horses. The pastures are in excellent condition.

Farm completely mechanized—unnecessary to buy single item of equipment. Two new tractors and all new operating equipment. An excellent farmer and dairyman now live on the estate and desire to stay.

Our instructions are to sell this property immediately. Early attention is suggested.

Hunting With The Virginia Hound

Some Comments On A Few of The Packs That Survived The War Between The States With Sidelights On The Byron Hounds

by A. Mackay Smith

It is fortunate for the history of the Virginia foxhound that Col. Fred Skinner spent the years immediately preceding the Civil War hunting in Rappahannock County. The destruction brought about by that conflict, particularly among livestock, was terrific. When Col. Fred went north to New York after it was over, in order to recoup his scattered fortunes, he joined the staff of the new weekly, Turf, Field and Farm, as sporting editor, and began casting up accounts to see what packs had survived.

In 1873 he summarised the situation as follows: "At present fox hunting and fox hunters alike have gone to decay in the south, and but few first-rate packs have survived the calamities of the war. The most noted now in existence are those of our valued correspondent T. G. T. of Caston (N. C.); Mr. Broadnax, of Brunswick (County, Virginia); Col. Charles Green of Rappahannock (County), Virginia, and the Messrs. Maupin and Robinson of Kentucky. One of these packs which we hunted with for years—that of Col. Green—we know to have been kept up to the mark simply by careful selection, the others by the infusion of fresh blood" (Turf, Field and Farm, May 9, 1873, Vol. XVI, No. 19).

The pack of Col. Green of Rappahannock, the one pack that not only survived the war, but did not even have to rely on outside blood, is of special interest to breeders of present day Virginia foxhounds, because so many of the strains now found in our crack packs go back to hounds that came from that county. Harry Worcester Smith, Joseph B. Thomas, William duPont, the Millbrook, the Orange County and many other packs got all or a large part of their foundation stock in Rappahannock.

Col. Green lived at that lovely house "The Shade", halfway between Sperryville and Washington, Va., now owned by his grandson Edward McCormick Green. Col. Skinner wrote: "Years after this (i. e. the days of the old Baltimore Hunt c. 1830) the ever shifting fates led the writer to Rappahannock Co. in Virginia and he here became the neighbor and friend of Col. Charles Green of "The Shade", the most persevering foxhunter it has ever been his good fortune to meet. This country has still 3 first rate packs of dogs owned respectively by Col. Green, Mr. Frank Esom (Eastham) and Mr. Tom Hughes—they meet almost in defiance of the weather, 3 times a week through the season, and rarely fail to kill their fox in good style, though the country is exceedingly rough and mountainous" (Turf, Field and Farm Vol. IV, p. 390, June 22, 1867). Those who go back to the days of the match between A. Henry Higginson's English hounds and Harry Worcester Smith's American hounds in the Piedmont country will remember that it was hounds the latter got from the Eastham's which pretty much saved the day for the American pack.

A correspondent from "near Fairfax Courthouse, Va." writes to Turf, Field and Farm on Dec. 14th, 1868 describing a hunt which started near Annandale, the fox running west past the court house, crossing Bull Run near Blackburn's ford and on to Centerville, where he doubled back, being caught near Bull Run—a point of about 13 miles. "Col.

Charles Green of Rappahannock (sic) our great and probably the oldest, as he is the most ardent, fox hunter in Virginia, being first up, bore off the honors of the brush". (Turf, Field and Farm Dec. 18, 1868, Vol. VII, p. 810). Col. Green must have particularly enjoyed this grand hunt as the young hounds in the pack were sired by one of his own dogs (Ibid, Dec. 4, 1868, Vol. VII, p. 779). Willis Browning, Berryman Hughes and Captain A. Murat Willis are also mentioned by Col. Skinner as having good packs in Rappahannock during this period. (Ibid Dec. 18, 1868, Vol. VII, p. 810; April 18, 1873, Vol. XVI, p. 253).

The Fairfax pack, mentioned above, contained not only a stallion hound of Col. Green's breeding, but also "two bitches of the famous Chichester stock—. There Chichester bitches had by some fortunate accident escaped the fate of all other dogs during the occupation of the county by the contending armies. Both Feds and Confeds had a great weakness for dogs." (Turf, Field and Farm Dec. 4, 1868, Vol. VII, p. 779). And again, "We have had an important addition to our pack of a couple of dogs from Charles County, Maryland, lineal descendants of some Irish dogs imported many years ago by the late Robert Oliver, the merchant prince of Baltimore. Of all the importations made by Sterris (i. e. Sterrett) Ridgeley, the Ogles, the Corbins, the Tayloes and after by the late John S. Skinner, these Irish dogs proved the best for our country.—The Irish dogs, without being remarkable for speed, were remarkable for packing well together and for their musical cry". At the conclusion of the hunt described "the Maryland bitch, Sweet Lips, nailed him (the fox), in sight of the whole field" (Ibid, Dec. 18, 1868, Vol. VII, p. 810). The Chichester stock will be remembered as one of the sources to which George Washington turned to re-establish his pack after the Revolution and for the sport which it showed in the 1830's as recounted in the Turf Register.

Col. Skinner in 1873 mentioned two other packs beside Col. Green's which had survived the Civil War, that of T. G. T. of Gaston, N. C. and Mr. Broadnax of Brunswick County, Va. Both of them were made up of hounds of the Byron strain which T. G. T. (Thomas G. Tucker) describes as follows: "They are strictly a South-side Virginia stock and originated from an importation from England by Capt. Parnel of Petersburg, Va. on the one side, and a native dog, the property of Hugh Percival Esq. of Brunswick County, Va. Capt. Parnel imported a pair and bred them together. One of the litter having a short tail, the Cap-

Sedgefield Hunt

Greensboro, N. C.
Established 1859
Recognized 1904

Joint-Masters: T. V. Rochelle,
N. M. Ayers.
Hounds: American.
Hunting: Fox.
Colors: Iron gray, burnt orange collar and vest.

The meet on Saturday, March 22 was at the Sedgefield Inn. Hounds had no more than time to fan out before several gave tongue simultaneously and in a matter of seconds, almost, the pack was on a line. They ran to the road in front of Mrs. J. H. Adams' and south on that road toward the Embassy Club. About half way to the club, the line led left toward the old scout cabin and then to the right down a twisting trail to Suit's woods which have recently been going through a logging operation. This logging business certainly messes up a forest, and it took alert riders to pick their way through these brush and logs and still keep up speed.

However, they all managed it and they ran straight to an old gold mine trail. Then they ran south for a quarter-mile and then sharp to the right, across the creek and then again to the south. The fox decided discretion the better part of valor and took refuge in a sawdust pile.

Whipper-in Gilbert Scott pulled out hounds that tried to follow the fox into the hole. An unusual thing happened. Part of the pack over ran the line of the sawdust pile bound fox and apparently without realizing it, picked up the line of another fox. This led to the west over a panel into the Brockman farm and through the pastures into the woods and out into a large field. Here hounds seemed certain of themselves, ran out of the field and bore to the south down a lane. Scent suddenly disappeared and they cold trailed back into the pasture. Apparently the fox had been all over it. Hounds worked diligently for about 20 minutes. Huntsman Thomas noted that, "He just couldn't have gone straight up", picked up hounds and cast them in a forest on the north side of the pasture. This proved good judgment.

Huntsman Thomas with Whippers-in Scott and Dan Rochelle, home from Woodbury Forest for spring vacation, followed hounds into the forest and north into a little swamp. Joint-Masters Nathan Ayers and T. V. Rochelle, Sr., led the field down the west edge of the woods, past the swamp and cut back to the east on the north side of the swamp. About midway through the woods Masters and Field heard hounds. "Mr. Fox" had played around over the pasture to the South of the forest and then cut back into the swamp. He had made a pretty bad error as the going was a little rough in the swampy country and he had made the mistake of resting instead of keeping on the move. When the Field first viewed him with hounds some 20 yards behind, it was apparent that he did not have a chance.

Hounds bowled him over within 10 to 15 yards of the entire Field and so, after an hour and a half of very interesting riding and hound work, a red fox came to his end. The Masters awarded the brush to Miss Helen Dallas, a young lady who has just started riding with the hunt this year and who has shown a great deal of interest and loyalty. The mask was awarded to Saunders Williamson, another new rider with the hunt this year but present at practically every fixture. There were quite a few in on their first kill and they had to be blooded. They were Misses Williamson, Dallas and Schiff-

When the Whitelands Hunt met Tuesday, March 11, at Paradise Farms at 9:30, it was the first official meet since the big snow and equally memorable. Withstanding bad going and tricky scenting conditions, hounds ran steadily for three hours and twenty minutes. The field of 7 had the longest if not the most spectacular run of the season.

Once again, we were luckily mounted on the J. R. Young's sure-footed "Cracker" who never made a misstep during the day. At the meet Huntsman George Hill and 8 and a half couple of hounds were ensconced in the truck. Soon after, Kenton "Buzz" Newlin (who rarely missed a Whitelands meet) rode up leading the huntsman's horse and accompanied by Whip Art Thomas. Hounds were unloaded and we set off to draw over Paradise Farms.

As the panels had drifts fore and aft, we took to the road and drew on over Coombe Ridge to Park's wood. There we were joined by Dr. Clarkson Addis and his Perkiomen Valley Hunt Staff who had vanned over from Collegeville. Delayed by drifts, they had been hunting the hunt for an hour.

Finding the Park Wood and Hartzell not at home, we drew South of Hartzell's to the old orchard where at 11:35 our stout fox was viewed streaking out of the adjoining woods. Unable to remember the name of the cover, Huntsman Hill man and Mr. Mitchell, all of them riding with Sedgefield for the first time this season.

After being weathered out of 6 fixtures, the worst record of any season many can recall, this last scheduled meet was a grand one.—T. V. R.

suggested we call it Foxhollow.

After being viewed away our fox proceeded to make 3 large circles not to mention several detours off his beaten track. We went through Park's woods so many times, we fully expected to get the brass ring. Swinging to the right of the cemetery off the Pottstown pike, he crossed in front of the old Park mansion, back through the woods, across the Coombe Ridge property and up the steep hill to the right of Sunset road. There, Dr. Addis suggested that we wait in the road rather than attempt mountain-climbing. He was over-ruled, but turned out to be right when the fox was viewed crossing back over the road and retracing his pad prints to the orchard.

Those of us who thought he might go in were wrong. He proceeded to make another loop around in front of the Park mansion, but kept going straight through woods and over fields to Bakers Hollow where the Field was daunted by wire. Just when we figured it might be necessary to use wire cutters, we saw hounds cross the Pottstown pike. After running along the ridge on the far side, they swung back. Huntsman Hill got off his horse and stopped traffic to the annoyance of motorists to whom the sight of hounds on the highway was as startling as spotting a lily in a dump.

Doing an extraordinary job of 'hunting', hounds never varied from the line, and were all accounted for as they sped across some lovely open fields and headed back to Park's woods. It was then 2 p. m. Hounds and horses were tired not to mention people.

However, the game fox made still another large circle and it was after 3 P. M. when he was denned in the cemetery just off the Pottstown pike. Huntsman Hill and "Buzz" Newlin had boasted about the bye-day they had on Monday when the Park woods fox gave them a 2 hour and 45 minute run, but they finally admitted that this had been a better day to "separate the men from the boys." It was caps off to hounds who worked brilliantly.

Scrub Beef Cattle A Good Riddance

Scrub Bull An Illegal Item In Western States Should Be Banned From East For Causing Loss of Thousands of Dollars To Farmers

by A. Mackay Smith

It's high time that Eastern and Corn Belt farmers took steps to get rid of the scrub beef bull. Like Mark Twain's weather, we all talk about it, but nobody seems to do anything about it. As a matter of fact no farming community can afford to have scrub bulls in its midst. The owners of pure-bred herds who have bulls to sell suffer from the competition they give. The commercial cattlemen with good bulls and good calves suffer because the calves by the scrubs give the section a bad name and buyers of feeder calves and steers consequently avoid it. Most of all the farmers who keep and breed to a scrub suffer—for a few dollars saved on the purchase price they sacrifice thousands because of the low quality of his calves.

There is one person who benefits by the scrub bull, however, and that is the man who specializes in them. You can see him at any of the local livestock auctions where he will buy any beefy looking bull calf that comes into the ring as long as he is from 10 to 18 months old and sells cheap. Once bought his new owner saddles over to a farmer who he knows has a few dairy cows and needs a cow fresher. It's easy—unfortunately—for him to make a deal. The farmer takes the calf home with the understanding that he will keep him until he is 2 years old—"when he gets too heavy for your cows"—and will then turn him back to the bull man who will supply another calf in his place.

It's all beautifully simple—for the bull man. In place of a 600 pound calf he gets, in a year and a half, a bull weighing 1,500 to 1,800 pounds, without spending a nickel for pasture or feed.

On today's market and with the price of bologna sausage sky high the scrub bull, which cost $50 as a calf, is worth from $200 to $250. All you have to do is to have a little capital, know enough farmers and buy enough calves and the rest is easy. And as a matter of fact there are a lot of men hanging about the sale rings who are making a very good thing out of doing just this.

We can well spare them from the livestock picture, however. What they make costs cattlemen 100 times more. The problem has been solved in the West and there is no reason why we should continue to tolerate it here.

The movement to eliminate the scrub bull started in Colorado, Idaho and Utah. The first step was to make it illegal to run on the range any except registered beef bulls. The second step was to appoint selection committees to pass on the quality of the bulls—if they did not meet certain standards they could not be used even though they had papers. The idea spread to other western states where bull grading is now the rule rather than the exception.

As a matter of practice 4 grades have been worked out. Grade A, is graded "excellent" for

1. Breed characteristics
2. Size, constitution and vigor
3. Conformation
4. Quality.

This is the type of bull good enough to head a pure-bred herd. Grade B, is graded "good" for

1. General breed character and "beefiness"
2. Size and general vigor
3. Natural fleshing and amount of bone.
4. Quality of backs, heads and underline.

This grade supplies excellent commercial bulls whose calves bring top prices.

Grade C, bulls are borderline cases which in normal times should be steered but which can be justified as sires when bulls are scarce. They are deficient in

1. Beef type and conformation.
2. Depth of body, bone, good heads, masculinity.
3. Quality and type.

Such bulls are usually the tail end of a 2nd rate pure-bred herd. Grade D, bulls are scrubs which if steered would not grade better than utility.

Are cattlemen East of the Mississippi river strong enough to start a program to get rid of the scrub bull? I think so. Of course there will be people who will rise up and say that such a move would be political dynamite. Perhaps dynamite is what is needed to snap us out of our present state of inertia. If so we shouldn't be afraid to use it. Actually, however, I do not believe that the situation is quite that explosive.

There are 2 ways in which the situation could be handled. One would be to start a bull grading program through the Extension Divisions of the various state Departments of Agriculture. It could be done on a voluntary basis, better still on a compulsory basis, just as we now have compulsory inspection of dairy barns, etc. There is plenty of public interest involved to justify such a move. Once the bulls in a given county had been graded we should at least know where we stood and be able to take steps to remedy the situation.

Another method would be to make the use of registered animals compulsory and to follow this up with grading. Eastern cattlemen are stronger than they think. It is in the interest of the entire farming community to improve the general wel-

BOTTEN FEED-SAVER RING

The Feed-Saver Ring shown in cut is an attachment we make for the Botten Corner Feed & Water Bucket to prevent a horse from rooting and spilling feed out of the bucket.

If you have a horse in your barn that is a feed waster or a stud horse that is a rough eater, you will find that this Feed-Saver Ring will stop this waste of feed. It will not take long to pay for this equipment from this saving of feed. The Feed-Saver Ring also has a tendency to make ravenous eaters, eat slower and not bolt their feed.

The Feed-Saver Ring is made removable so that it is easier to wash and also makes it possible to stack the Buckets for shipment. The Feed-Saver Ring will fit all Botten Corner Buckets now in service.

Introductory Offer

We will ship One Botten Corner Bucket with Installation Bracket Pre-paid to any address in the U. S. A. for $6.00. Feed-Saver attachment $4.00 extra. Send for your sample bucket today and compare it with what you are using. Your name and address printed on the edge of this ad will be sufficient.

Queen's Flight Top Camden Performer For Miss von Stade

The 34th Camden Horse Show, held on Saturday, March 22 on Mrs. Marion duPont Scott's property, Camden, S. C., was by far the largest and best in its history.

Otto Furr, who came down from Middleburg, Va., judged the entire show alone and his decision must have completely satisfied the exhibitors as there was not a word of complaint to be heard around the rail.

Model hunters drew 21 entries and was won by The Chiquapin Farm's grey gelding Clifton's Ruler which was the subsequent champion of the show, winning in addition the middle and heavyweight hunter class and the hunter stake.

Reserve to Clifton's Ruler was the Vernon Valley Farm's Lightland, winner of the lightweight hunters and 2nd in the stake. Vernon Cardy's Vernon Valley Farm also won the working hunters with Time Square and placed 2nd with Jervis Bay in this same class.

Perhaps the smoothest performance of the day was put up by Miss Dolly von Stade's Queen's Flight in winning the ladies' hunters class. At least, this was the opinion of 3 renowned hunting gentlemen who watched the show with more than a little interest—namely, Ernest White, Fred Bontecon and Everett Crawford.

Probably from a horseman's viewpoint, the 2 most interesting classes in the show were those calling for the best flat horse type and the one for the best steeplechase type. First in the flat horse division was the magnificent *Mahmoud grey gelding, *Treasury, of Rokeby Stables, a winner in England which was imported last year by Jim Ryan.

The steeplechase type was won by George Shwab, Jr.'s Foxview Farm's Halcyon gelding, Monighan, trained by J. V. H. Davis. The well known Galactia, owned by Mrs. E. duPont Weir and Tourist List, owned by Lowry Watkins, were 2nd and 3rd respectively.

Owner-Riders Fill Jumper Division At Aylward Show

By Eugene Flaumenhaft

The Aylward Junior Horse Show was held Saturday, February 8 in the indoor ring of Aylward's Riding Academy in New York. Though entries were not confined to juniors, the show was run by the children under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Aylward Smith. The hard working committee received excellent cooperation from Judges Mrs. J. Schuyler Wilson, Mrs. L. Victor Weiland, and Jack Spratt. The show ran smoothly and according to schedule and despite blizzard weather was well attended.

The horsemanship classes were particularly well filled. Miss Margaret MacRay was pinned over Miss Melissa Weston to take the only hunter seat class of the day.

In bridle path hack, hunter type, Wilfredo, a gray gelding owned by George Burns, Jr., and ridden by Miss Peggy Chanin, got the nod over Lavender, a big bay mare owned and ridden by Mrs. G. Melhado. Wilfredo may be remembered for his performance for the Peruvian Team at the 1946 National Horse Show.

Owner-riders came to the fore in the jumper division. Flash, a Virginia-bred chestnut, owned and ridden by Myron Bonis, seems to specialize in tricky courses. The winner in the jumper division over the special course, the chestnut had earlier had a good round over a very intricate handy hunter course for the blue ribbon.

SUMMARIES

Horsemanship, children who have ridden only 6 months—1. Joe Burlinger; 2. Fred Burlinger; 3. Marao Murray; 4. Janet Clark; 5. Sandra Clark.

Maiden horsemanship—1. Deirdre Hubbard; 2. Sheila Meehan; 3. Joan Radler; 4. Sheila Burger; 5. Jeffrey Deston; 6. Joan Maass.

Horsemanship, hunter seat—1. Margaret MacRay; 2. Melissa Weston; 3. Deirdre Hubbard; 4. Penny Chanin; 5. Marvin Rapoport; 6. Frank Sabella.

Virginia Horsemen Organizing Shows By Classification

The Virginia Horse Shows Association, Inc. is a growing concern. Far from the unorganized outlook the first of the year, the association now has an office at 163 Culpeper St., Warrenton, Va. and an assistant secretary. This makes it possible to obtain information by telephone at any time between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. which will be quite a help to those shows which put off things until the last minute.

The shows are classified A, B and C. Shows offering a minimum of $2,500 in cash, (exclusive of trophies), in the hunter, hunter breeding, working hunter and jumper classes, with a minimum of the following classes, championship classes excluded, are A shows:

15 hunter and hunter breeding classes

6 working hunter classes
8 jumper classes

The B shows are the ones offering a minimum of $1,000 in cash and the same conditions but with only 10 hunter and hunter breeding classes and 4 each of working hunter and jumper classes.

The C shows come under the classification of offering under $1,000 in cash.

The above indicates that a show

Members and Guests Watch Youngsters Perform From Indoor Gallery As Toni diMarco Receives Championship

by Lenore Marshall

Traditionally the Board of Directors of the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., entertain members and guests at a New Year's Day Open House. Arthur Gibson of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., was judge of the hunter and jumper classes of the 1947 New Year's show. R. Edmund Dowling announced and Miss Sylvia Cartwright was clerk of the show.

Miss Toni DiMarco, daughter of the Hunt Club's vice-president, Rocco DiMarco, was grand champion of the show, and Miss Joyce Mulkey was reserve champion. Toni was grand champion of the GPHC Junior Show in June 1945, as well as reserve champion of the 1946 New Year's Day Show. Joyce was reserve champion of the 1945 June Show.

*Reading II At Northridge Farms

(Chronicle Photos)

OUT AT NORTHRIDGE FARMS, "the Cradle of Champions", Thoroughbred Nursery owned by J. H. Ryan, near Northridge, Calif., stands *READING II, the 11-year-old MARCONIGRAM--GRAVURE sire, whose book is full through 1948. Jack Cartier manages the 3-farm establishment and Flavio Lomax rides *READING II daily, (in a stock saddle) throughout the farm, along drives and highways.

FOUND EXERCISING ON this visit in March, Manager Cartier asked Lomax to unsaddle *READING II for better inspection of conformation. He will be bred to forty mares this coming season, his third year at stud.

HE STOOD him at an angle.

THEN WENT UNDER his neck to tack him up and quietly walked away. *READING II's first crop are yearlings now, 9 of them. A docile, well mannered horse he will have 27 foals this year. His first foal of 1947 was that of HOOP SKIRT's on February 9. Lomax is good with foals, is pictured with the *READING II filly out of BLUE ALIBHAI, by *ALIBHAI, which was the second foal of the farm, February 14. This mare was taken out of training in 1946, caught the next day. Other stallions at the farm are BLACK BADGE, a *COHORT horse of extreme speed, DAH HE, TICK ON, TIME ALONE and GALLY HOUR, the *SIR GALLAHAD horse belonging to Jockey Johnny Longden. "The smartest foal of the farm", according to Manager Cartier is the TIME ALONE--BUBBLING WATER, which was foaled in mid-February and is already an outstanding and well grown individual at Northridge Farms.

Prolonged Winter Hindrance To Conditioning Of Horses; Inaugural Racing At Northern Tracks Expected To Be Bit Slow

by Salvator

This present week has marked the "official" opening of the "regular" racing season of 1947 in the East, as distinguished from the lone all-winter-and-spring grinds at the California and Southern tracks.

The Maryland season got under way at Bowie on April 1.

The New York season will follow suit at Jamaica on Saturday, the 5th.

On the same date the New England season was due to open at the Pascoag, R. I., "merry-go-round", adjacent to Providence.

The stake events due for decision will be the Rowe Memorial, at Bowie, on the 2nd., 6 furlongs, $10,000 added, for all ages; and, on the 5th, the Bowie Handicap, at the same track, $10,000 added, 1 mile and 70 yards; with, on the same day, the Paumonok Handicap at Jamaica, $20,000 added, 6 furlongs.

The outlook is not for a particularly brilliant inaugural at either track, due to the very backward spring.

Winter has lingered so unconscionably long in the lap of the so-called vernal season that the number of horses ready for racing will be similarly small.

It has been simply impossible to get them ready, under the weather conditions that have prevailed, and in consequence it is expected that these meetings will have to depend largely upon fields recruited from Florida, New Orleans and California; horses that have been racing there and are thus thoroughly seasoned.

There are a few southern training points which are expected to provide a quota of horses—but the conditions there have also been so unseasonable that few of them are believed to be really fit for strenuous campaigning.

Moreover, the Florida season has not yet closed. It will extend at Gulfstream until April 19, and there are still a number of stakes to be decided there; which will detain a good many stables that otherwise would have moved north to race.

Such circumstances are not very inspiring—particularly if the cold and chilly weather should hold on, as it will affect the attendance as well as the form of the horses.

Of course, after the all-winter hiatus, crowds will turn out—they always have and they always will—but they will not be anything like what warm, inviting weather would produce.

Meanwhile, much speculation is being indulged in as regards just what the season will bring forth once it has settled into its stride.

The optimists—whom we have always with us—are confident that another year of fabulous prosperity is in the offing.

The pessimists—whom we have with us in somewhat larger numbers than for some seasons past—are apprehensive that a very considerable falling-off is due for registry.

The conservatives rather coincide with the pessimists.

That the outlook is not what it was a year ago is, among them, pretty generally admitted.

For this there are various reasons.

The principal one being that the flood of money in circulation had begun already to subside before the season of 1945 closed.

"The spenders" will not cut such a wide swath as they did—not by any means.

The enormous rise in living costs of all kinds has diminished their assets by no small margin.

Letter From New York

Belmont, Jamaica and Aqueduct Seethe With Activity As Trainers and Horses Arrive From Winter Sojourn In Southern Climes

by Bob Kelley

The sun is out this morning over Belmont and Jamaica and Aqueduct, but that is about all that can be said for the New York season that gets officially under way in a day or so after these words have been entrusted to the care of the United States Postal Service. Judging by the weather we have been having for the past six weeks, it is just as well these couriers of the mail get through rain and snow and hail etc. in the completion of their appointed rounds, for there is small reason to believe we won't have a little bit of each in the next few days.

Enough Blood To Feel

Yesterday, with various types of tan above various types of shivers, returned stable men were at cars unloading at a great rate on Belmont's siding, the southern contingents huddling their shoulders against the wind. Earlier that morning exercise boys had crowded around braziers with blankets over their shoulders, trying to get enough blood back in their hands to feel the pink "handles" of the reins in their fingers when they climbed up again. The galloping at Jamaica has been, much of it, around the outside strip, though Tommy Maher has the entire track open, and Neil Boyle won't have the main strip at Belmont open to works for several more days.

All of this means that, to the usual uncertainties of early spring racing, has been added the vagaries of the (the same mail referred to above prevents the use of proper definitive language) weather. In other words, those who begin bucking the mutual machines early might just as well bet the odds. There are going to be some funny results.

Stymie—Gallorette

But it is pleasant, extremely pleasant, to watch them coming back, the old faces (equine and human) and the new ones (mostly equine) which may become increasingly familiar as the string of racing stretches out to the great climax of The Belmont. Stymie looks extremely well; Gallorette seems big and strong as a bull; Hirsh Jacobs still entertains—now around the stove in the greenhouse at Jamaica—after the morning works.

Granted anything approaching decent weather, there will be 50,000 or so of the faithful out at Jamaica opening day to watch The Paumonok. It will be history when these lines are read, but just for fun here is a guess—Buzfuz, with Windfields and Scholarship as possibilities.

Air Transport To Stay

The first full week will see the two sections of The Experimental run. It is to be fondly hoped that Harry Warner's Stepfather goes in one of the branches—Tuesday's is at 6 furlongs, Saturday's at a mile and a 16th—and does well, for that should give air transport another boost. There is still much left to be desired in air travel (this from the heart of one who has flown the better part of 20,000 miles over sea and land since spring was here last) but the darn thing is here to stay and you might as well recognize it. They moved a bunch of people to New York from Los Angeles last night in something a bit more than 6 hours.

Phalanx And Classics

Attracting a good deal of attention at Belmont is Phalanx. There is a reasonably large section of aficionados who like this strong looking son of Pilate—Jacola, Virginia-bred by Abram S. Hewitt. At this writing he has had here only a strongly restrained half mile, but he goes about his work in a businesslike,

Breeders' Notes

*Flushing II's Book

Prince Dimitri Djordjadze, but recently back from Florida, via Lexington, Ky., last week inspected William Ziegler, Jr.'s Wait A Bit stallion standing at Burrland Farm, Middleburg, Va. Prince Dimitri and Mr. Ziegler Jr. have exchanged services. The latter is sending Esposa to *Princequillo (that is breeding stayers to stayers some contend) and the former is sending Majorette, an American Flag mare to Wait A Bit. *Flushing II, (the *Mahmoud sire standing at Scottsville, Va.), will have 22 mares this season and 18 other requests were turned down. The grey sire has put on some 75-100 lbs. since his arrival in this country and has already had some of his court taking his mares very quietly. There are but 6 services left available for *Flushing II in 1948. La Tour, 1-2 sister to Lucky Draw and Frere Jacques, a *Sickle matron, will go to *Flushing II. Charley Hancock has an Equipoise mare in partnership which will go to the *Mahmoud son's court and Howard Underwood, of Kentucky, is sending 2 mares, 1 by *Dis Done and 1 by Blue Larkspur to *Flushing II. *Cisneros also stands at Prince Dimitri Djordjadze's Plain Dealing Farm, near Scottsville. This South American horse had had 100 per-cent winners in his first foal crop, from second choice mares of his home stud. Plain Dealing Farm reports foals by Unbreakable, *Princequillo and Sun Egret and expect some 14 foals in all this spring.

Grand Admiral Retired

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Grand Admiral, mighty and compact son of War Admiral, will race no more. A leg injury suffered in winter training in Aiken, S. C., forced his early retirement. According to Preston W. Burch, trainer for Brookmeade Stable, Grand Admiral will stand at Brookmeade Farm, near Upperville, Va., for the season of 1947 and then will go to Kentucky in 1948. An announcement of his stud fees will be made shortly. Grand Admiral, who will get a court of 10 mares, shipped north from Aiken with Maid of Harlem, which will go to the court of By Jimmy and Battle Theme and His Boots, both which will be gelded and turned to chasing.

Gino Beau At Annefield

Gino Beau bred by the late Willis Sharpe Kilmer (*Gino — Flower Girl, by Pennant), winner of 10 races and the property of A. C. Rottels, will stand at William Bell Watkins' Annefield Farm at Berryville, Va. There it is that Rathbeale, sire of steeplechasers such as Mad Policy and Miltiades, did himself proud with limited opportunity.

Virginia's First Foal

The first foal of the year in Virginia was uncontestedly the son of Straight Lead (by Display)—Runamuck, by *Chilhowee, which arrived at exactly 1:30 A. M. on January 1, 1947 at Mrs. Mary E. Buckley's High Acre Farm, The Plains, Va. Dr. Robert L. Humphrey and his son, Dr. Rufus Humphrey, examined the mare the afternoon before, in view of the fact that there was doubt about the foaling date. There was doubt, definitely, for that night Frank Bell and Walter Graham superintended the mare, when in labor. At exactly 1:30 A. M. Runamuck foaled and the colt is doing famously. "You should come over and see him", said Frank Bell, "he is outstanding, and has a long lead on his age already".

Attention—Worries Over

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Church, II, who operate their North Cliff Thoroughbred nursery near Rixeyville, Va., had sent their *Pharmond II mare, Angelus Tempo out to Kentucky to foal. The recent epidemic of abortion cases (which John Clark remarked of recently in "The Thoroughbred Record" as "not being limited to Kentucky"), had the Churches worried. On Sunday, March 23, Douglas Davis, of High Hope Farm, Lexington, Ky., at whose establishment Angelus Tempo was awaiting her foal, advised that a strapping bay son of Attention had arrived. Angelus Tempo will go to Roman and then return to Virginia. Attention stands at William Helis' "Helis Stock Farm", in New Jersey.—A number of well known breeders have reported virus abortion losses, including Sterling Clark, Mrs. George L. Harrison, Hirsh Jacobs among others.

Tempus Fugit

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Church II bred a bay son of *Quatre Bras II, or Okapi—Angelus Tempo, by *Pharmond II and sold him at the Saratoga Yearling Sales for $6,500. Messrs. Heller and O'Leary who race in the name of Lester Manor Stable named the colt Fugit and George H. Strate went to work on him. Fugit literally made time fly at Gulfstream Park, setting a new track record of :47 1-5 for 1-2 mile. "Fugit held a slight lead on the rail on the turn, drew clear when shaken up and increased his margin under light urging until the end", where he won by 3 lengths. This was a particularly satisfying triumph for the breeders in that this was their first home-bred yearling. Angelus Tempo recently foaled a colt by Attention, which will prove rather desirable come the 1948 yearling sales and there will definitely be lively bidding for a smoothly turned filly by Pilate out of Angelus Tempo being offered this year at Saratoga by the Churches.

Johnny Schiff Jumpers

Oleg Dubassoff, one time chasing trainer specialist and now equally well known as a flat trainer, what with his excellent record with the Lazy P. Ranch runners, has 2 pairs of full brothers, all by *Challenge II in training to be chasers for John M. Schiff, Kalamazoo and Fibland, 4 and 3 respectively are out of *Lola Montez II, a *Stefan the Great mare imported in 1936 by Mr. Schiff and herself a grand jumper. These 2 are well endowed, what with the greatness of *Challenger II and *Lola Montez II's jumping heritage. Mrs. Michael Smithwick, mother of those hard-riding sons, Michael and Patty, who are destined to be strong factors in future Maryland Hunt Cups, hunted Kalorama aside. These 2 horses are thus 1-2 brothers to Ourarms.—The other pair of brothers, also by *Challenger II, are out of *Yellodine, Paredine, 4, and Iodine 3. This foursome should bring real fame to Mr. Schiff's purple and white colors, once carried so gallantly and well by the late Indigo, timber winner which went on to give his owner many fine seasons in the hunting field. Mr. Dubassoff took out "Spring Maiden Stakes" subscriptions on the closing date of March 20 for these *Challenger II's. This featured series was designed by F. Ambrose Clark some years ago to encourage 'chasing.

Dollie Byers String

Dollie Byers, who trains for Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, kept Chesapeake, Ralywyn, Great Flare, Mat and Blue Kite going throughout the winter in Aiken, S. C. All 'chasers, some were utilized in the 'chasing school held there during the months of December-February inclusive.

Louis Stoddard's 10

Louis Stoddard, Jr. rigged up a very workmanlike stable set-up in Aiken, S. C., which enabled him to have his horses all on his own, isolated from the bigger barns. He built a paddock and freshened up his 1946 'chasing campaigners there. Now he has 10 in training. He has 2-year-olds by Tintagel—Hation, by Milkman—Galla Moments (the latter colt a full brother to Galactic, good 'chasing winner bred by Mrs. W. Plunket Stewart). That useful mare Kittiwisk has wintered well. His 3-year-olds are Port Raider, which ran for $12,000 last season and Kunming, chestnut son of Teddy Weed, purchased at the Meadow Brook sales in 1945 and which suffered foot trouble last season after trying well. Older horses include Big Sun, by *Sun Briar, one of Mr. Stoddard, Jr.'s claims of last season; Fourth Arm, 6-year-old *Quatre Bras II, a hurdler of 1946 and now schooling over brush; Parader, by *Belfonds and Wolfberry, 6-year-old by Peace Chance—Bitter Sweet, by *St. Germans, a Greentree-bred, which ran at the Spa and is schooling well this winter. A number of these will be seen at the Camden Hunt Meeting and then come on to Deep Run Hunt Cup and Middleburg Hunt Race Meetings.

Montpelier String

Raymond G. Woolfe, trainer of Mrs. Marion duPont Scott's 'chasing string, has had 6 horses wintering in Camden, S. C. These include *Corrigan, Hampton Road, Virelay and Compass Rose and the young horses *Irish Easter, 3, and *Kipper, 4, both Irish-breds. Mr. Woolfe also has had the good winner Tourist List, belonging to Lowry Watkins, of Louisville, Ky., in Camden. The Montpelier Camden training track. Mr. Watkins has a horse in training for the Iroquois Memorial named Yendor, Rodney spelled backwards.

Thellmond's Colt

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. "Sandy" Baldwin, White Post, Va., have a home-bred matron, Thellmond, by *Pharomond II—Shell Hole, by Man o'War, which came very close to presenting the world with a foal on Man o'War's 30th birthday, March 29. The colt however, by Eight Thirty arrived on Tuesday, March 25, and is bred very much like that good 2-year-old of 1945, Condiment, now standing in Tennessee with Del Holeman. The Eight Thirty—Thellmond's breeding may also be likened to that useful Stitch Again, which all but pulled off the Santa Anita $100,000 handicap.—Mrs. Baldwin's wisdom in purchasing, all on her own accord, and all for herself, Fancy You, by Blue Larkspur last year at the Keeneland Fall Sales, was well substantiated recently when Bull Lead, bay son of Bull Lea—Fancy You equalled the track record for 3-8 mile at Gulfstream on March 17.

Camden's 15th Hunt Meeting

Rokeby Stable's *Paul Revere Wins The Kershaw, Montpelier's Compass Rose, The Springdale; Bumper Races Inaugurated

by Gerald B. Webb, Jr.

The 15th Annual Camden, S. C. Race Meeting was held on Saturday, March 29. For many years it has been known as the "Carolina Cup" Meeting, but due to the fact that few timber horses are wintered in Camden any longer this feature event, from which the annual races held on the "Springdale Course" developed, a substitute race has been run for the past 2 years in a timber affair in the name of "The Kershaw Steeplechase" and "The Springdale Cup Steeplechase" also run in 14 preceding renewals, were the feature races.

Rokeby Stable, owned by Paul Mellon, of Upperville, Va., won "The Kershaw" with *Paul Revere as Montpelier's Compass Rose, a 4-year-old home-bred son of Annapolis schooled the best to win the featured "Springdale". "The Kershaw" was a good race back of the winner. The winner, an imported horse which had schooled and trained all alone all through the winter at Camden's "Springdale Course", without benefit of any other timber horse to go head-and-head with, had only to beat 4 others, all hunting hunters, which had neither been trained or galloped a great deal. As result, it was a keen contest for 2nd and 3rd and had Mrs. George Watts Hill's Rion Hall, (with a strictly green rider up, who took his mount the long way for the 3-4's of a mile he went), stood up for the 2 1-4 miles, he might well have given the winner a go for the $600 purse money. Rion Hall, a 5-year-old son of Flag Pole, with as little experience as his rider, went straightway to the top to come to grief at the 8th fence, falling.

Mr. Alex Stokes was on J. J. Kann's Captain Bart, with Trainer W. Burling Cocks saddling, all of Philadelphia or thereabouts, to finish 2nd in "The Kershaw" as Robert Leighton's hunter, down from Tryon, N. C., took 3rd with Mr. Austin Brown riding but 3-4 length away. Jockey de Murguimondo, a recent graduate from the Aiken 'chasing school, was 4th. The stewards gave him a raking down for not riding out John M. Schiff's grey hunter, also trained by Mr. Cocks. But this was this rider's first race and he was caught napping. The time was slow: 4:39 3-5, with the winning rider, Jockey R. Douglas merely sitting still for the last part.

Jockey Douglas, making his debut at the hunt meetings, having been developed this past winter in the stable of Trainer James E. Ryan, started off the season properly enough, returning Miss Cordelia M. Scaife's Golden Risk the winner of the curtain-raiser, in "The Wateree" of 1 1-2 miles over hurdles and rode another to win 3 races during the day. Trainer Sidney Watters, Jr. saddled his charge and for want of colors those of Rokeby Stable's were used. Golden Risk, 6-year-old by Riskulus, held off George H. "Pete" Bostwick's El Oro Rey handily by 5 lengths as Allison Stern's Tourist Index was 3rd. Two came to grief in this maiden hurdle event.

The "Springdale Cup" was a good school for almost 2 miles, with Jockey W. Mallison swinging on Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Hidalgo for the whole way to keep him head-and-head with Bold Mate, owned by F. Ambrose Clark. Then Hidalgo, suddenly asked to go on, met his next to his last fence, the 11th, wrong and went down in his landing stride. Bold Mate then had it laced up and then Jockey Packus came off in the tain presented her to George Dugger, of Brunswick, Va. She was a black slut with a large indigo-blue and white ring around her neck, with feet and legs similarly marked, and the exact counterpart of her mother (old Clio) whose name she bore. Clio Jr. was bred to Hugh Percival's Rattler, a large indigo-blue speckle (i.e. blue ticked) of fine size and thunderous note. The litter consisted of four pups only—Byron, a pale black-and-tan with a white slip down his face, of fine size and a note fully equal to his sire's; Rattler, an indigo-blue speckle; Dido and Music, both in every respect like the mother Clio.

"The last three were in Gen. P. H. Starke's pack many years before he left Virginia for Mississippi. One of these sluts (Music) was sent to Gen. Wade Hampton of South Carolina; but, escaping from the servant just as she was near her place of destination, she returned to Gen. Starke and in an incredibly short space of time.

"Byron fell into the hands of Col. John Tucker (my father) and bred to his sluts with such astonishing improvement that the Byron cross was eagerly sought by all foxhunters. I now own more hounds with Byron blood in them than any one in this section and, next to me, W. E. Broadnax Esq. of Brunswick County, Va. who, by the by, is a splendid huntsman and has a superior pack. There is scarcely a hound in this section that has not Byron in him, either through Rattler or Byron (brothers), and Watchman is now likely to improve the stock far and near" (Turf, Field and Farm, May 9, 1873, Vol. XVII, No. 19).

Gen. P. B. Starke adds the following details: "At that time (about 1833) a club of gentlemen in Petersburg, Va. organized a pack of foxhounds and, among other things, they imported some hounds from England. They bred an English dog and bitch and Clio, the dam of Byron, was the result.—He had the characteristics of a first-class foxhound; his speed, powers of endurance and perseverance were unsurpassed by any one dog and he became still more celebrated in later years as a strike dog—that is to say (for his ability to) find the scent and give tongue first" (American Field, April 7, 1883, Vol. XIX, p. 251).

Hon. John S. Wise adds some further light to the origin of the Byron hounds in the same periodical (Jan. 10, 1891, Vol. XXXV, p. 29): "The first great Virginian I recall as being an enthusiastic foxhound breeder was John Randolph of Roanoke. Some years ago, being in Warren, N. C., Dr. George A. Foote called my attention to a voluminous correspondence preserved there between Mr. Randolph and that distinguished North Carolinian, Hon. Nathaniel Macon, U. S. Senator.

They discussed the breeding of their dogs with as much zeal as if it were the most important matter of statecraft. Mr. Randolph had imported largely and he and Mr. Macon were much interested in crossing the imported upon the best of the native stock. I was informed that their dogs were often sent from the residence of the one to the other, a distance of fifty or sixty miles, for this purpose. No doubt the stock of both of them is still preserved in Charlotte County, Va. and in Mecklenburg, and in Warrenton, N. C., and Gaston and vicinity. If I am not mistaken the famous Byron hounds, owned by Col. Tucker, near Gaston, strain back to both Mr. Randolph's and Col. Macon's kennels". Mr. Wise was quite correct. In speaking of the breeding of one of his bitches Col. Tucker says: "Vanity is Byron on one side and the imported Lad stock on the other, which was the favorite strain of the Hon. Nathaniel Macon's pack and was by Gen. Phil. Hawkins, imported and patronized by Mr. Macon" (Turf, Field and Farm, Dec. 24, 1875, Vol. XXI, p. 467).

The great runs that Col. Tucker and Mr. Broadnax had with their Byron hounds from 1868 to 1886 when the former was in his eightieth year are chronicled in the pages of Turf, Field and Farm and the American Field. Turf, Field and Farm Dec. 25, 1868, Vol. VII, p. 834; Jan. 22, 1869, Vol. VIII, p. 51; Dec. 17, 1869, Vol. IX, p. 387; Mar. 11, 1870, Vol. X, p. 146; Apr. 8, 1870, Vol. X, p. 211; Feb. 10, 1871, Vol. XII, p. 82; 89; Dec. 8, 1871, Vol. XIII, p. 355; Dec. 29, 1871, Vol. XIII, p. 408; Feb. 23, 1872, Vol. XIV, p. 122; Oct. 25, 1872, Vol. XV, No. 17; May 9, 1873, Vol. XVI, No. 19; Jan. 2, 1874, Vol. XVIII, p. 1; Dec. 10, 1875, Vol. XXI, p. 437; Dec. 24, 1875, Vol. XXI, p. 467; The Chicago Field, Apr. 2, 1881, Vol. XV, No. 8; The American Field, Mar. 17, 1883, Vol. XIX, p. 192; Mar. 17, 1883, Vol. XIX, No. 11; Apr. 7, 1883, Vol. XIX, p. 251. The Byrons were shipped all over the United States and made a great name for themselves. Some of them went up to Fauquier County, Virginia. But that must wait for a later issue.

Redland Hunt Point-To-Point

Snowy Night and John Hopewell Redland Bowl
Winners In Initial Cross-Country Race;
Four Card Event Well Attended

by Nancy G. Lee

They turn out in Maryland when the topic of interest is a horse. At the Redland Hunt Races which started at Dave Martin's farm, Oakdale, Md. on March 22, the uninformed might have thought that the crowd was out to watch a race at a major track with mutual betting. A sad blow to writers who emphasize that betting draws the crowd; there wasn't a bookie around. There was a little betting on the side but this was strictly between friends.

The Redland Bowl Race was the last of the 4 events of the afternoon and 7 of the original 9 entries went to the post. With genial Gus Riggs as starter, the entries walked up and were away. Donald Fancey on his Marge E. and Miss Judy Johnson on T. T. Mott's Chen were off on top. The last one off and bucking like an entry in a Wild West show was Sam Pepercorn on his Sue Jean. Over and safe at the first chicken coop, this pair went into the 2nd jump, a post and rail, with odds as to whether the mare would buck or jump. She went safely over, and the leaders were seen to be Miss Johnson and then Frank Lewis on Joseph Richards, Jr.'s Modacious.

Over the chicken coop the field went out of sight. About midway between this coop and the next one, there was a ditch which proved to be the downfall for Norman Haymaker riding Dr. L. M. Allen's War Veteran. He remounted and negotiated the next 2 jumps safely but then got a refusal. After crossing this stream, the field came back into view over a board gate with Chen and Modacious still in the lead, followed by John Hopewell on Mrs. Crompton Smith's Snowy Night.

Swinging left-handed, the same order prevailed through the woods and over chicken coops. Coming out of the barnyard over another coop, the 6th jump from the finish, War Veteran had moved up and jumped head and head with Snowy Night in 3rd place. This brought the field back to the post and rail which they had jumped going out, a chicken coop and back across the ditch where War Veteran had gone down. Coming into the 3rd jump from home, Snowy Night made her bid, closely followed by Chen and Modacious. Across the stream and over the post and rail, only a chicken coop remained. The grey filly held her lead with Modacious and Chen driving for 2nd position. At the last jump, Modacious came a cropper, and Mr. Hopewell and Miss Johnson rode to a driving finish with Snowy Night the winner, Chen 2nd and the erstwhile bronco Sue Jean 3rd. M. D. Curran's Lump Sum, War Veteran and Marge E. finished in that order.

The Terpenning Cup Pair Race had 4 pairs. Mrs. Elizabeth C. Smith on John Hopewell's Woodwind and Miss Judy Johnson on T. T. Mott's One Flag went to the top at once and over the stream after the 2nd jump, a post and rail, the No. 3 pair lost a member in Miss Sally Zantinger on A. W. Smith's Nanette as they parted company at the stream. Disappearing after the 3rd jump, the No. 1 pair still led as they came into view but Mrs. Elizabeth McSherry on her Could Be and Mr. Mike McSherry on his mother's Kitty Carr had pulled up.

With Mrs. Smith and Woodwind, Miss Judy Johnson and One Flag came in to win easily as Miss Nancy P. Hanna, an owner-rider on her Gone Away, and another owner-rider, Miss Jane Blunt on her Satan, finished 2nd. Miss Joan Randle on Boyd Keys' Tabu was 3rd and her partner, Miss Zantinger finished later within the time limit. The time for the pairs was 10:07 as compared with the Redland Bowl time of 10:15 4-5.

Mrs. Smith was riding her first point-to-point and the 16-year-old Woodwind was having his first outing in such an event. Woodwind carried Mr. Hopewell when he was M. F. H. of Millwood Hunt (drag) and in the past has won hunter trials in New England, working hunter and open classes in the show ring and in 1941 was written up for an outstanding performance in the Myopia Horse Show when he won a difficult handy hunter class. Miss Johnson was on a green one in One Flag and stayed behind Woodwind, doing an excellent piece of riding.

A whirlwind of excitement ruled when the 5 entries lined up for The Gap Hunters Race. F. Lewis on Miss Betty Sherman's Hypathia returned the eventual winner. However, he had a hard time getting away at the start, losing his hat and careening along the edge of the crowd, as Hypathia wanted to return to the vans. Dominick, a big, unclipped grey with feed tub sized feet, set the pace throughout and came "galloping" gallantly along, tiring at the end when his rider lost a stirrup, to take 2nd.

The 4 heavyweights were well bunched at the start but T. T. Mott, M. F. H. Redland Hunt, took his Leap Year to the front. Carroll Curran on At Ease then took over and held this lead throughout and as the field came into the last jump, Mr. Mott and Leap Year were head and head with the leader. What happened at the chicken coop was anybody's guess. At Ease hit the coop hard, tearing out boards and remaining still on the ground while Mr. Mott and Mr. Stabler had to do some quick thinking to miss the horse. Mr. Stabler came on to win with Leap Year 2nd ahead of Sir Rowdy.

With the races over, the Redland Hunt breakfast proved a good finale. Everyone had a wonderful time and was well fortified against any further onslaught of wind and threatening rain, as the presentations of the various trophies were made.

Expansion At Roosevelt Raceway

With Million Dollar Offering Roosevelt Raceway Steps Into Grand Circuit To Play Host To Three-Year-Olds In Matron Stakes

by Sulky

Most of the richest stakes for which trotters have raced have customarily been over mile tracks. Although the Grand Circuit admits half-mile tracks as members, the smaller ovals generally have been passed by in the bidding for such top stakes as the Hambletonian, the National Stake, the American Stake, the Stallion Stake and the Matron Stake, all limited to 3-year-old trotters. Size of the track and the bank-roll have favored mile tracks along with the prestige which accompanies the faster times trotters make over the longer tracks.

This year, however, a half-mile track will step into the Grand Circuit and stage the Matron Stake at its racing plant. Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury, L. I., has been a member of the Grand Circuit before this year, but it has never played host to as prominent a 3-year-old race. In the past, it has relied more upon its length of meeting (roughly, racing there last year was from May to October), although it has always been a favorite with harness horsemen, because of its rich purses.

The Matron Stake is not the only attraction Roosevelt Raceway will offer during its 125 nights of racing this year. With the total purse money to be raced for exceeding one million dollars, pacers will also have a crack at some top stakes. Among these are two divisions of The Village Farm Stakes for 2 and 3-year-old pacers; the Abbedale Stakes for sidewheelers of the same ages and the National Pacing Derby, worth $25,000, whose unique conditions provide that no entry fee shall be paid by starters and that all starters shall be eligible only upon invitation. The initial pacing of this race was held last year when April Star 2.03 1-4, the "miracle pacer", by Bert Abbe, 1.59 1-4, won.

The trotting counterpart of the National Pacing Derby whose entrance conditions are the same, (the American Trotting Championship) will also be renewed this year carrying the same purse value. A pair of new stakes, estimated to be worth $40,000 each, have also been added. They are the Roosevelt Two-Mile Trot and the Roosevelt Two-Mile Pace, to be raced, respectively, on August 22 and September 22 at the Westbury "twice-around" track. It will cost an owner $500 to enter a candidate in either of these 2 races. Initial payment of $50 will nominate the horse while a 2nd payment of $100 on April 1 of this year will keep him eligible. The final $350 is the starting fee due on the day of the race. The race is "open to the world."

Since its inception about 7 years ago, Roosevelt Raceway has been an outstanding success and has popularized harness racing around New York City and environs. The well-appointed racing plant consists of a good half-mile track, a grandstand which offers the best in comfort, and ample room for spectators to view the racing. For the horseman, a wet-weather training track of cinders and modern, well constructed barns are big drawing points.

With the addition of the Matron Stake, the pair of 2-mile races and other feature stakes this year, Roosevelt seems to be taking the play away from some of the older tracks whose traditions alone are not sufficient to attract patrons to trotting and pacing. Liberal policies respecting owners, trainers and drivers as well as the public are paying off good dividends in harness racing today. If you don't believe it, take a trip to Roosevelt raceway.

Aiken Defeats Augusta Team In Brisk Game

Aiken defeated Augusta in a brisk game played in Aiken, S. C., on Sunday March 23, 7-6.

A feature during the intermission at half-time was the exhibition of Emperor Hirohito's famous white stallion "Hatsushimo. He was led about the "Powder House Polo Field", where some 1,000 spectators expressed considerable interest.

R. V. Clark Plans Polo In Virginia For Summer Season

Robert V. Clark, who has concluded his indoor polo season in New York has returned to his "Stoneleigh Farm", near Middleburg, Va., and already has plans underway to inaugurate polo in the Middleburg area this summer. Mr. Clark is anxious to have all those interested in playing this summer contact him at their earliest convenience.

It is planned to have some 20 "club" ponies under the direction of Joe Snyder. These ponies will be available for play by "club" members at a flat rate per month for the season, which will enable "club" members to get 3 days of polo per week, at a very low cost. Mr. Clark has Johnny Gayer and E. V. Ellis associated with his polo stable.

New Jerseyites Defeat New York In Polo Benefit

The Red Cross Benefit Game played in the Squadron A. Armory Wednesday, March 19, proved an all star feature. The New Jersey team, with a total handicap of 17 goals defeated the New York team, with a rating of 16 goals, 10-7 in a nip and tuck contest.

Streatham Mares One of Herring's Best Works of Art

J. F. Herring painted a great picture of broodmares and foals for J. Bowes, Esq., Member of Parliament and owner of Streatham Castle and Gibside Park, Durham. This painting is now in the collection of that famous saddle horse expert, Miss Clara Peck, whose horses have been winning in shows all over the country and who bred last year the grand champion saddle horse of the country. The Chronicle is greatly indebted to Miss Peck for permission to republish her painting on the front page, a photo of which was sent us by E. J. Rousuck of Scott & Fowles.

Joe Palmer writing to Miss Peck in 1936 said of this painting, "You have 4 excellent mares here, considering that all are carrying on a century after the picture was painted." And so it is for the first mare is Oblivion, ancestress of Dark Ronald, Upset, St. James and Jamestown.

The second mare is Maid of Lune the ancestress of Cima de Conegliano, winner of the Italian Derby, (Derby Reale) in 1923, and Flor Fina, winner of the Grand Prix de Ostende in 1921 and also winner of the Flaneur in 1921.

The third is Gibside Fairy the ancestress of Flying Fox, *Teddy, *Sir Gallahad III, *Bulldog, Gallant Fox, Granville, Omaha and High Quest while the 4th is Emma, ancestress of Fair Play, Man o'War, Display and Discovery.

This painting is one of Herring's best. It has great finish, a fine treatment of horses and foals while his background is a typical, lush portrayal of rural England in the early Victorian era. Herring who started out life driving the Highflyer stage between London and York ended by being the dean of the sporting painters and to some the end of the great era of British Sporting painters.

IRISH GOLD

by Pamela Hinkson

"A nostalgic expression of Irish country-house life . . . it sounds a note which has not been heard in modern Anglo-Irish fiction . . .

"Someone has said that a horse is an Irishman's totem pole. Surely it is Miss Hinkson's. One can see better, think better, learn better—all on a horse. From her description of foxhunting, I realized just why the English and the Irish are so passionately devoted to that sport. . . . Like love, it's so engrossing that, engaged in it, one forgets all the rest of one's problems."

Foxhunting Season Ends As Show And Floods Make Quagmire of Rural England

By J. Fairfax-Blakeborough

In view of rural England being a quagmire few Masters will hunt again this season out of consideration for farmers, although it is often they who ask that there should be a prolongation of each season. Possibly they have their tongues in their cheeks when they plead for bye-days to kill alleged lamb-worriers, for it is sport many of these good fellows—the very backbone of hunting—really want.

An M. F. H.'s Experiences

During the recent heavy snow, when roads were impassable and telephones were out of action, I heard of one M.F.H. who had a varied experience in getting to his kennels. He had had no tidings of his pack for several days, so determined to go to see it. He travelled so far by train, then took a taxi, which struck after a mile or two. He then borrowed a cart-horse from a farmer, but it balked and floundered in drifts, so had to be put in at an inn stable. The M.F.H. then continued his journey on foot, and, on reaching his kennels found the pack down with distemper, and two of his most promising young hounds dead. He then wished he had stayed at home. When he related his experiences to me, he added, "And to think I've spent hundreds of pounds to go to Switzerland to see snow!"

Of course many Masters of Hounds and their supporters in the past have found life so empty when hunting has been stopped by long wintry visitations, that they have taken hounds out in the snow. The old-time Cleveland Nimrods went out on cart-horses. Mr. Penn Sherbrooke hunted in the snow in the Sinnington country. The great Col. Anstruther Thompson had some great runs when the ground was deeply covered and it is related that the first Earl of Lonsdale, who was Master of the Quorn from 1806 to 1842, after being frozen out for three weeks, took out his pack in six inches of snow and had one of the best runs of the season.

One of many interesting snow stories I have heard was of a badger and a fox. There are many who hold the view that badgers hibernate during the winter, and some good naturalists have stated this to be a fact. They cannot have paid many visits to badger colonies when there has been snow on the ground or they would have seen "the trade" and "feelings" which give evidence that brock curls himself up underground in sleep for limited periods only in hard weather. A friend of mine (like me a badger lover) visited the cotes on his property towards the end of the February snows, and found two rabbit-skins outside, as carefully removed as by an expert "skinner". There were abundant claw-marks all round telling of such coming and going of badgers. We have always believed that badgers, foxes and dogs, require a certain amount of both fur and feather for digestive purposes, but evidently these badgers were not in need of fur, for they had left the skins of the conies, which they can locate with such remarkable accuracy and dig down to so speedily.

Now for the story of the fox. One imagined that foxes would be safely underground in the daytime during February and the question arises to whether some "stub-bred" foxes never do sleep below ground. When the snow was at its deepest two youths were floundering through drifts over a moorland when they were suddenly surprised and startled by the snow moving in front of them, and a big fox (foxes are always "big" according to ruralists), appearing who "loped" away in front of them.

Apropos "big" foxes, I expressed the opinion here recently that there are now none of the outsize greyhound foxes one used to see in the wild hill country. I thought they had interbred with small low country foxes (imported years ago after a mange epidemic) until they had quite lost their size and distinctive individuality. A correspondent writes to me from Bewcastle and says:

"There are still a good many long-sided, long-legged, greyhound foxes left in Liddesdale, on the Northern Pennines, both north and south of the Border. The truest specimens have their reddish-brown coats well tipped with silvery grey, and three or four inches of white tag on the end of their brushes. When they rise from the heather or bent, with their coats clean and dry, and the sun is on them, they look magnificent. The mature hill foxes of this type weigh about twenty pounds when killed."

Foxes are about the best travelers in deep snow, as their tracks (with slight indentations only) prove. Nevertheless, I have recently heard of several foxes which fell victims to collies, which, owing to their greater weight, sink deeper into wintry covering. There is possibly a longer inherent enmity between the sheep-dog and the fox than is found even in the foxhound. Be this as it may, collies will course and kill foxes single-handed, which few foxhounds will do. During February, when sheep took a lot of "shepherding", I heard of three or four foxes being coursed, caught and killed by collies; in two cases after a stand up fight, in others without any real attempt at retaliation.

HORSE SENSE

The condition of the mare, the foal and the yearling depends largely on good feeding. Your horse will like Derwood Crunch and you will like the results. Good feed means good performance.

sensible manner and looks like developing into a good colt. If he gets over his habit of slow starting, he may be hard to handle in the 3-year-old classics.

Indian Visitor

An interesting visitor during the past few days has been H. H. the Gaekwor of Baroda. Though faced with a very busy schedule during a necessarily brief visit here, he took time out to visit with racing people and spent the better part of a day—starting with the morning gallops—at Belmont. He has recently purchased a spot for a breeding farm in Ireland and was extremely anxious, though uncertain he could arrange it, to get out to some of the breeding establishments in Kentucky to gain ideas for the start of his Irish farm. He is also a possible foreign entrant in the Empire Gold Cup, first of the big international races.

Everything Identified

Two types of identification processes were smoothly under way at the tracks in New York. Over at Belmont, the C. V. Whitney stable's four footed stars were all tattooed on their lips in accordance with the new horse identification plan and at Jamaica, various types of employees, beginning with John A. Morris, track president, were having their finger prints made and listed.

The New York inaugural had the biggest air coverage of any horse event in the country's history. All four of the major radio chains were hurling wordage out from the roof of the old track and, not so far away, both CBS and NBC television crews were televising the Paumonok for those who own these Buck Rogers magic lanterns. It was the first time in New York that races have been televised, though movies, taken during an afternoon, had been sent out over television in the evening during the past season.

Anyway, here goes a new New York season, with the richest stake list in history and the richest general purse distribution in American racing.

United Hunts Offers $20,000 Contribution To Aid Hunt Meetings

Lewis E. Waring, president United Hunts Racing Assn., has announced a generous contribution of $20,000 to the Spring hunt meeting, to be used for purses or trophies. This sizeable donation will insure high class racing at the hunt meetings this Spring and the Board of Directors of the United Hunts will make an announcement of the amount of its contribution to the Fall meetings at a future date.

The Association, which has an apt motto of "For Sport's Sake and Better Sport" has also contributed $5,000 to the expense of operating the newly organized promotional body, the Hunt Race Meetings Assn., which will further the goal of both organizations of improving steeplechasing and hunt meeting racing in America.

The opportunity is offered members of the United Hunts to renew yearly membership, which honors admission of a member and one lady at all hunt race meetings assisted financially by the United Hunts in 1947.

The threat of greatly increased unemployment is a very real one.

The disturbed condition of public affairs is still another. It is very difficult to anticipate just what turn they may take; and whichever way they do turn is not too rich with promise.

Most serious persons—meaning not those professionally but rationally so—have realized for some time past that the hectic and timid state of affairs prevalent for several years cannot continue indefinitely.

A "break"—any time it may come—will in no way surprise them. It will be only another illustration of that well-known law of gravity which ordains that "What goes up must come down."

"The sky the limit" is an order of the day that has never yet, in human affairs, been known to prove enduring. And as the Turf can claim no immunity from the forces that govern them—is, on the contrary, very susceptible to them—a "return to earth" is as certain as that sunset follows sunrise.

Meanwhile it may be said that the preliminary excitement over the Kentucky Derby, which is now constantly drawing nearer—it is due for Saturday, May 3, at Churchill Downs—lacks a lot of what it has been in other years.

The knowledge that a very considerable number of the most formidable candidates—on their two-year-old form—will not get to the post, is in part accountable for this. While, between now and post time, it is altogether probable that several additions will be made to this "awkward squad."

But, aside from this, somehow there seems to be something lacking in the pre-Derby atmosphere. It is without any of the electricity that has usually prevailed. . . . Which it is sincerely to be hoped, will not, in the outcome, seriously affect its success of what in many ways is the biggest "sporting event" of the season on the American calendar.

breeze as the son of Mate went deep over the last one. Jockey F. Hutchinson, who had been trailing the above 2 the whole way, merely galloped to victory with Montpelier's Compass Rose.

Montpelier scored a triple for the day when the Irish-bred *Kipper beat Mrs. Fitch Gilbert's Bomint by 1-2 a length, which in turn held off the driving *The Boyne, owned by Mrs. Esther duPont Weir, by the same. This was the best race of the day, the first running of the series of the newly conditioned "Bumper Races". This one was known as "The Camden Bumper Race". All the riders were non-winners of a race of any kind but they rode like veterans. There were 4 horses 1-2 length and 2 necks apart.

Montpelier's 3rd victory came in the finale, when the well named filly by Unbreakable—Flashing, Stiegel Glass, scored in "The Camden Plate" of 6 furlongs on the flat, winning by a neck from H. A. Perkins' Cyper, with Jockey J. Magee sitting about a barrel of lead, at 160 lbs. The winner had a concession of 24 lbs., as Mr. Bostwick's useful High Tint was 3rd.

"The Baron De Kalb", for veteran hurdlers, saw Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Mat win by 1 length, repeating his 1946 performance. This race was run 1-5 seconds faster than the maiden hurdle race and Mrs. Weir's Middle River was 2nd, a head ahead of Mr. Clark's Flying Dolphin.

In the Country

A Griswold Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Griswold III are the proud parents of a daughter born in February. The little lady joins a sporting family of 2 brothers and comes by a natural heritage of a foxhunter and horsewoman. Mr. Griswold has several point-to-point horses in training and may be seen on one of them in the Maryland Hunt Cup on Saturday, April 26.

The Charley McCormicks

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. McCormick, Jr., of Portland, Ore., visited Virginia recently, stopping with the S. Prentice Porters, they joint-M. F. H's. of Cobbler Hounds and he Field Master for Orange County Hunt, 1945-46. Mr. McCormick Jr., associated with lumber interests in Oregon, played polo with Mr. Porter when at Yale and had a day with Orange County Hunt, the first hunt after this winter's "big" snow.

Artist Anderson

C. W. Anderson, well known horse artist, has wintered in Aiken, S.C. He has been busy in the early mornings, observing the gallops and getting subject matter for some of his many portraits. He will hold a showing shortly at the Ferargil Galleries on East 57th St., New York.

Ryan's Youngest

James E. Ryan, successful trainer of both flat and 'chasing stakes winners, had the youngest combination in the country in training in Camden, S.C. during the winter. Richard Coleman, rider, in his teens, was turned loose each morning on Innish Moor, 3-year-old by Pilate. This 3-year-old, not yet 3, when observed schooling, had been jogged, cantered, worked and schooled over fences by "Richard", and the combination charmed all who observed their workouts. "Richard" had not ridden before last November and he fairly turned the hair of the veterans on end in February when he cut loose Innish Moor over 4 fences after being told to "take a long steady pull on him".

Jack Shaw Cracks Up

One of "the sportiest gentlemen" of the Maryland countryside, John K. Shaw, Jr., M. F. H., Green Spring Valley Hounds, cracked up in a fast drag Saturday, March 22. These drags are the wind up of sport each season for this good hunt and act as season's pipe-openers for many Maryland Hunt Cup hopefuls. Mr. Shaw, Jr. was riding a green horse and met a fence wrong, early in the line. The Green Spring M. F. H. took a real pearler, was knocked out and came up with a broken wrist and 2 broken ribs. Redmond Stewart, who was riding his Second Mate, a gelded son of Mate, which he may run in the point-to-point of Mr. Stewart's Cheshire Foxhounds, the week-end of April 5, stopped to give Mr. Shaw, Jr. a hand.

South American Firing

What they do it for is not clear, but a number of the Horatio A. Luro-imported South American horses have been fired on rumps, hips, even flanks. *Grand Prince II has a neat pattern of firing on his rump, as has *Cheryba. *Mon Prince was fired behind, not in front, and up on one hip, with the pattern running out over a rib and down over the flank. It is a bracing theory undoubtedly that is effected, perhaps only in the minds of the Argentines.

Charles Wittingham has the Luro string in Camden, S.C. and colored stable manager Leon Brevard carries on when all others are absent. *Hachazo, Mr. George, Black Rage, Old Fuss, Full Harvest, Mr. John and Orsina are among the older horses wintering in Camden. Some of the 2-year-olds of Mr. Luro's handling in Camden are by *Isolater, *Piping Rock, Johnstown, *Jacopo and Eight Thirty. The latter is out of Never Again. Manager Brevard has suggested the name "Hang-over".

Whitemarsh Races

Whitemarsh Hunt Meeting Races will be run on Saturday, May 24 instead of May 3, which was in conflict with the Virginia Gold Cup Meeting, in Warrenton, Va. Announcement of Whitemarsh's decision to take the May 24 Saturday came from John Cooper, Secy. of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Assn. The hunt meeting spring season is thus extended 1 week longer, with Whitemarsh following Radnor and Rose Tree.

Few And Far

Mr. and Mrs. Grant A. Ackerman of Lincoln, Nebr., find Thoroughbred hunters and jumpers few and far between in their area. They are very keen and own two fine sons of Sil-Nor, the Olympic mare, a grandson of Man o'War, and a filly of Broomstick bloodlines.

Student Visitors

Students of the Cavalry Riding Academy, Cleveland, Ohio, will attend the Middleburg Hunt Race Meeting Assn. fixture, April 12th. George P. Carter, head of this academy has made reservations and 7 youngsters chaperoned by Miss Keeler and Mrs. Jane Ferguson and George Carter will journey to Virginia for this week end.

In Between

Conrad Shamel of Silver Spring, Maryland writes that he is in "a h--- of a fix these days with the hunt season winding up and being torn with the desire of going hunting and attending point-to-points."

Things To Come

There is a bill before the Maryland State Legislature which if passed will bring about a newly planned club near Waldorf, Md., promoting trotting racing, polo, golf and a riding and hunt club. Wesley McDonald, attorney and former secretary to one-time Senator Bob Reynolds, of North Carolina, has advised that a corporation has been granted a charter and has capital stock of $1,000,000. The bill before the legislature would legalize harness races. Plans call for some $500,000 to be spent on a race track and club house on the some 3,000 acres owned by Mr. Reynolds. The names of Hillen P. Morgan and Eugene E. Goddard, both of Waldorf, were also signatures to the petition.

Perry's New Ones

Mr. and Mrs. W. Haggin Perry will have some new ones coming out this spring in the conformation hunter divisions. A difficult to fault chestnut gelding, standing 16.1, said to have manners and performance to match, is named Fortitude. Mrs. Perry has been hunting him. Mr. and Mrs. Perry have selected their young horses with a very definite type in mind. Cartender, good young hunter winner of The Garden, has matching stablemates in Erased Error, 3-year-old and Richvang, 4-year-old, which will be seen in the early shows.

Great Aunt Amelia

by AIDAN ROARK

Great Aunt Amelia is a bit miffed about several things, but mainly about newspaper people, who she says constantly misquote her. "I love them" says she "the way a partridge loves a hawk."

G. A. A. subscribes to The N. Y. Times because it keeps her up to date, and to The Chronicle because it keeps her six months behind The Times. She says The Chronicle gets the news alright, but they have trouble getting it out. Which is no wonder with one member of the staff in California stealing oranges and another in Florida after the grapefruit.

G. A. A. says The Chronicle editors are talking through wine colored glasses (not the kind they wear on their noses) when they see visions of international flat racing. That is; unless the various countries agree to standardize their tracks. She thinks they may do it in time, but that it won't be successful until the boys can obtain a court order to restrain the weather.

If they were to make dirt tracks in England and Eire, why all the horses would have to be shod with chains, or grow web feet. G. A. A. is grateful to The Chronicle for saying, "it was left to the irrepressible Irish to propose international steeplechasing." She says that even if they did put it that way, it proves that the truth will sometimes out. Yes, even in The Chronicle.

Now is the time says she, for 'chasing boys to put their best foot forward and steal a march on the gold-diggers who wouldn't ride a horse over a potato furrow, let alone a bit of a brush jump. In the 'chasing world conditions are more nearly alike and if the boys put their heads and their hearts together it should not be too difficult to resolve whatever differences exist.

According to Americans the Irish run their races the wrong way. Well we do, but do you remember Corrigan? Now if we could all go in the same direction, it's a great race we would have... Isn't it about time all the countries got together on something?

Minnesota Notes

Interest in riding definitely slumps in Minnesota during the cold winter months. Everyone has either gone to warm resorts, Jamaica, Palm Beach, Arizona or to skiing ones, Aspen, Sun Valley and Canada. However, Tryon, N. C. has gained popularity for those who want to ride. Lyman Wakefield's major sport in summer is riding but come winter he changes boots for skates. This winter found him in Stockholm, Sweden, as United States Judge for the World's Figure Skating Championship.—Gracie and Alfred Lindley, both keen horsemen, who were among those who started polo in Minnesota last summer, also are keen for ski slopes and are both champions. This year they followed the winter trails to Sun Valley.—Two horses owned by the C. B. Sweatts passed into Valhalla this winter, both came from the Deborah Rood sale back in 1941: Dan Dart and Andor. Copper Penney is a new purchase and will be heard about this year at the shows. The Sweatts' horses should have the jump on others in the North as they have wintered well in Tryon, N. C.—Others in Tryon are the Philip Kobbes, Esther Crosby, the Leonard Carpenters. The latter took Pilot, Lucky, Fricka and Wickem Blitzen to The Blue Ridge Hunt, Va., for sport and then went on to Tryon. The Leon Warners were also visiting in the Blue Ridge country, hunting. They bought a Cleveland Bay out of a field, named him Shenandoah.—Woogie.

Chronicle Quiz Answers

1. When a horse is plain in looks, but moves well the would-be seller will say to the complaining buyer, "Well, he really has the gift of going."
2. A hound with which to hunt the hare. The English harrier is practically identical with the English foxhound, but somewhat smaller.
3. The part of a bridle which passes over the top and down the sides of a horse's head and to which the bit is attached.
4. The name of the trophy given to the winner of the principal coursing event for greyhounds in England.
5. A horse is hide bound when, as the result of poor condition, his skin sticks tightly to his ribs.
6. A horse on which to ride at a smart pace to the meet, there to be exchanged for the hunter which a groom has brought on slowly ahead of time.

Canadian Breeding Prospects

Severe Climate Not Principal Handicap To Success of Canadian Breeders Whose Interest In Racing Is On Increase.

by Broadview

Canadian interest in racing and breeding Thoroughbreds is ever increasing. The racing season will be longer this year than ever before. In the past couple of years there have been many new stallions offered at stud in Canada and a large number of new people have entered the ranks of breeders.

Canadian yearlings have followed the world trend of higher prices with those offered in the 1946 yearling sale bringing an average of $2,620, against $1,769 in 1945.

There has been much controversy on the suitability of the Canadian climate for the production of high class race horses. Some claim it is too severe and others that the long winters are conducive to producing more hardy horses. Certainly the winters can not provide the advantages of milder climates but breeders who plan the arrival of foals in late winter and early spring months and provide proper nutrition according to the seasons can overcome this to a marked degree. Neither the time of the colt's arrival nor the climate seem to leave any effect on the actual merit of the colt as a race horse. This, as everywhere, is really a matter of breeding.

Some think of Canadian-bred horses as being inferior to those bred in other countries but this can hardly be attributed to the climate or even to Canadian-bred horses in general. It is known that the percentage of horses that are of stake caliber is very small and of these there are some years that pass without any reaching the ranks of really great horses. Canada has produced no Busher or Whirlaways but the number of Canadian-bred stake horses is very small to draw from.

In 1946 the total number of Canadian-bred horses of all ages racing in Canada, the United States and Mexico was 1,014. In 1925 this number was only 300, so perhaps it is understandable why Canada has not produced any great horses.

The training of horses is handicapped in Canada due to the seasons and few of the top Canadian horses have invaded the U. S. A. where a better measure of merit might be established. It will no doubt be some years before a sufficient number of top Canadian horses can compete on even terms with top American horses to establish any degree of comparison to speak for Canada as a Thoroughbred breeding country.

American tracks generally are much faster than Canadian tracks as horses that have raced over the border have bettered their own marks and their racing value. Recently the Canadian-bred Cum Laude broke Seabiscuit's record for 1 1/2 mi. at Santa Anita in 1:48 3/5. As a 3-year-old Cum Laude ranked 6th among Canadian money winners of that year and 32nd among the money winners last year.

The leading sire in Canada in 1946 was Sweepster whose get in monies won was only slightly over $100 ahead of the get of Bunty Lawless. This to the best of my knowledge is the first time a Canadian-bred stallion has ever placed so high on the list. Sweepster was represented by 22 starters. Bunty Lawless by 18. Heading the breeders in Canada was R. J. Speers of Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Leading Canadian-bred money winner for 1946 was E. P. Taylor's Windfields by Bunty Lawless-Nandi. 2nd leading money and leading 2-year-old was the black filly Casa Camara, by *Siete-Colores-Mintwina, owned by W. F. Morrissey. All Windfields' races were run in the United

Greentree Farm Sold

The famous Greentree Farm, near Monmouth Park, N. J., has been purchased by Mrs. Alice Sherman, prominent New Jersey horsewoman. Mrs. Sherman is one of the first New Jersey owners to apply for the Monmouth Park meeting, June 19-July 30. Amory L. Haskell, president of the Monmouth Park Jockey Club has recently okayed plans to enlarge the infield lake and reshaping same into a crescent "horse-shoe" form.

Four *Rufugi

Richard K. Mellon of Rolling Rock, near Ligonier, Pa., has *Rufugi standing there. This horse is the sire of four 3-year-olds that Sidney Watters, Jr. has been readying for the spring hunt meetings in Camden, S. C. this winter. Deferrment, is out of Dove Flight, by Tryster; Teslin is out of Winsome Girl, by Chance Shot, Bowman's Dale is out of Play Flower, by My Play and Coy is out of Defiance, by Kai-Sang. Mr. Watters, Jr., M. F. H. of Rolling Rock Hunt, has been galloping his charges himself.

Davis Is Training

J. V. H. "Bobby" Davis, amateur rider, is training a public stable and has had his horses in Camden, S. C. for the past month. He has Allison Stern's Tourist Index and George Shwab, Jr.'s Monighan. The latter was the winner of the best steeplechase type in the recent Camden horse show. He is a 5-year-old son of Halcyon—Frances Victoria and competed in the name of Mr. Shwab, Jr.'s Foxview Farm.

The Dubassoff Barn

Oleg Dubassoff, trainer, keeps one of the most immaculate stables in the country. He has had the same barn in Aiken, S. C. ever since the day he first took up some of the favorite theories of the late Thomas Hitchcock, a close friend of his. In Aiken this past winter Trainer Du-bassoff has had a big string of some 30 horses. Many of these are Lazy F. Ranch horses. One of the 1st Lazy F. home-breds is a Lovely Night—Dewey Dawn grey. (Lazy F. has 6 mares in foal this year and Cocopet, the good winner has a nice yearling by Eight Thirty). The syndicate horse, 2-year-old now, by *Blenheim II—Black Wave purchased last August at the Keeneland Summer Sales has developed well, has fine manners. He is owned jointly by Mill River and Lazy F. Nathaniel, stakes winner, is a magnificent type of big horse on short legs. Others are Iodine and Calvados. Hoseah, a 1-2 brother to Nathaniel, is developing nicely, despite the loss of one eye as a foal.

States except one when he was flown up to the Ontario Jockey Club fall meeting to win the Breeders Stakes.

American Air Express

J. C. Lambert is president of the American Air Express Corp. which is rapidly expanding in the field of air transportation for Thoroughbred horses. Frank Rollins is the traffic manager and good will ambassador. This company is using both DC-3's and DC-4's.

Yearling Prices

The contention from this corner is that yearling prices at the forthcoming Keeneland Summer Sales and the Saratoga Yearling Sales, will be as high, if not higher. The price level for the Thoroughbred is based on the potential earning capacity of a race horse. Stakes and purses are higher than in 1946 and until attendance falls off and betting drops to such a degree that purse monies are of necessity, reduced, the price of Thoroughbreds will continue on the same high level. The Mayer sale averages didn't hurt the Thoroughbred business either. Increased buying activity is reported on all fronts.

Roebing Stres

Joseph M. Roebing has 3 Thoroughbred sires. Case Ace, the *Teddy horse, stands at Harmony Hollow Stud, near Harborton, N. J., and his book is full. Lochinvar, with a fee of $300, a son of Case Ace, stands at the Pons' Country Life Farm near Belair, Md., and Wildlife, the *Easton horse, with a fee of $200 stands near Wrightstown, N. J., at Stromboli Farm.
